
SOME WEEKS AGO A copy of the "opinion survey" conducted by the Campbell Elementary Teachers Association of programs in the Campbell Union School District appeared in the San Jose Mercury-News.

Those wishing to participate in the survey were asked to clip it out and mail it to the address listed.

After the copy of the survey appeared in the Merc-News, a number of people wondered out loud in our presence how come The Press had not offered the same "public service" to its readers.

What these people had failed to realize was that the CETA had placed the survey as a paid advertisement in the Merc-News at the regular space rate.

True it was a "public service".

But the Merc-News was paid for it.

-0-

THE PRESS, OBVIOUSly, would have been happy to publish the copy of the survey under the same conditions.

But, unfortunately, we were not contacted by the CETA.

We recognize that the Merc-News offers a much wider coverage than The Press. We find no fault with the CETA buying space in that medium for that reason.

And we know the ad people on the Mercury-News were pleased to sell the survey/advertisement to the CETA, just as The Press would have been.

Although the Merc-News and The Campbell Press operate in different leagues, the basic principles of both are pretty much the same as far as advertising is concerned.

Advertising happens to be the life-blood of all newspapers.

So, for the record, we wanted to clear up this "public service" bit. That survey that appeared in the Merc-News was inserted as an advertisement at the regular space rates.

The same size ad would have cost $78.75 in The Press.

We try very hard to keep our perspective in situations like this.

We make an effort to turn the other cheek.

But, golly, that is hard to do sometimes.

CHRISTMAS OF 1971 IS now some 10 days into history but all of us probably have some fond thoughts of the season that will linger with us for some time, maybe even in some cases for the 355 days that remain before next Christmas.

One of the unique highlights of Christmas that has always intrigued us is the care that is so often taken in the wrapping of gifts.

In many cases, after considerable time has been spent in the careful wrapping of a package just so with bows and ribbons, etc., the recipient of the gift, a few hours later, has set a speed record in ripping off the trimmings to get at the goodies inside.

We suppose the reason this gift-wrapping/unwrapping ritual impresses us so much is that when it comes to wrapping anything we apparently just don't have what it takes.

We try to avoid getting involved in such activities because our handiwork always stands out so unattractively among the neatly-wrapped presents.

Fortunately for us, during the Christmas season, most stores have a gift-wrapping service available where skilled personnel take care of things in an efficent manner.

It is a pleasure to see them in action.

Nothing seems to daunt the wrapping pros.

For example, we picked out an umbrella for our Dorothy in one store.

Now just how does one wrap an umbrella? We figured we would just stick a bow on it some place and stick it

SHOWS $2.5 MILLION INCREASE OVER 1970

Retail sales in Campbell for third quarter 1971 sets new high record

Taxable sales in Campbell for the third quarter of 1971 set an all-time high and showed a $2.5 million increase over the same period in 1970, according to the report of the State Board of Equalization that has just been released.

The report reveals that taxable sales totalled $17,359,000 in the second quarter of 1971 compared to $14,847,000 in 1970.

Taxable sales, the basis for the sales tax income, in Campbell in the second quarter in 1971 topped the sales in Los Gatos for the same period by $1.2 million.

Los Gatos had $16,138.000 in total sales for the third quarter, barely topping Cupertino with $16,090,000.

In the last few years, Cupertino has had a fantastic increase in taxable sales. Taxable sales in Cupertino went up $5 million for the third quarter in 1971 over 1970 and by $7.3 million in a space of two years.

According to the report, taxable sales in the county for the third quarter were up 11.8 per cent. Campbell's increase for the period was approximately 17%.

Almost one-half of the total sales in Los Gatos for the third quarter last year stemmed from "auto row." That category accounted for $7.5 million of the $16 million total.

Auto sales were up more than $1 million in Los Gatos for the second quarter in 1971 as compared to 1970.

There are no automobile agencies in Campbell, but the category "auto dealers and auto supplies" accounted for $148,000 in sales for the third quarter last year as compared to $177,000 the year before.

Home furnishings in the third quarter in Campbell totalled $3,071,000 as compared to $2,306,000 an increase of $765,000 and building materials accounted for $2,898,000 compared to $2,306,000 in 1970, an increase of $692,000.

For the third quarter a big increase was registered for apparel stores going from $187,000 in 1970 to $416,000 in 1971, more than doubling the business. However, there was a decrease in the sales listed under "general merchandise stores." The total was $730,000 for the period in 1970 and $608,000 in 1971.

The State Board of Equalization report suggested that prospects are favorable for a fourth quarter that will far outstrip the slack 1970 fourth quarter.

Total sales in the fourth quarter of 1970 were down from the same period in 1969 in Campbell.

FOR AMATO PROPERTY

Plan goes to Council

Called "Arroyo del Prado", a proposed site plan for a planned "townhouse" residential community for the 31-acre former Amato property between Campbell and Latimer avenues goes before the City Council next Monday, Jan. 10.

The site-plan received the approval of the Planning Commission on Dec. 6 by a 5-2 vote.

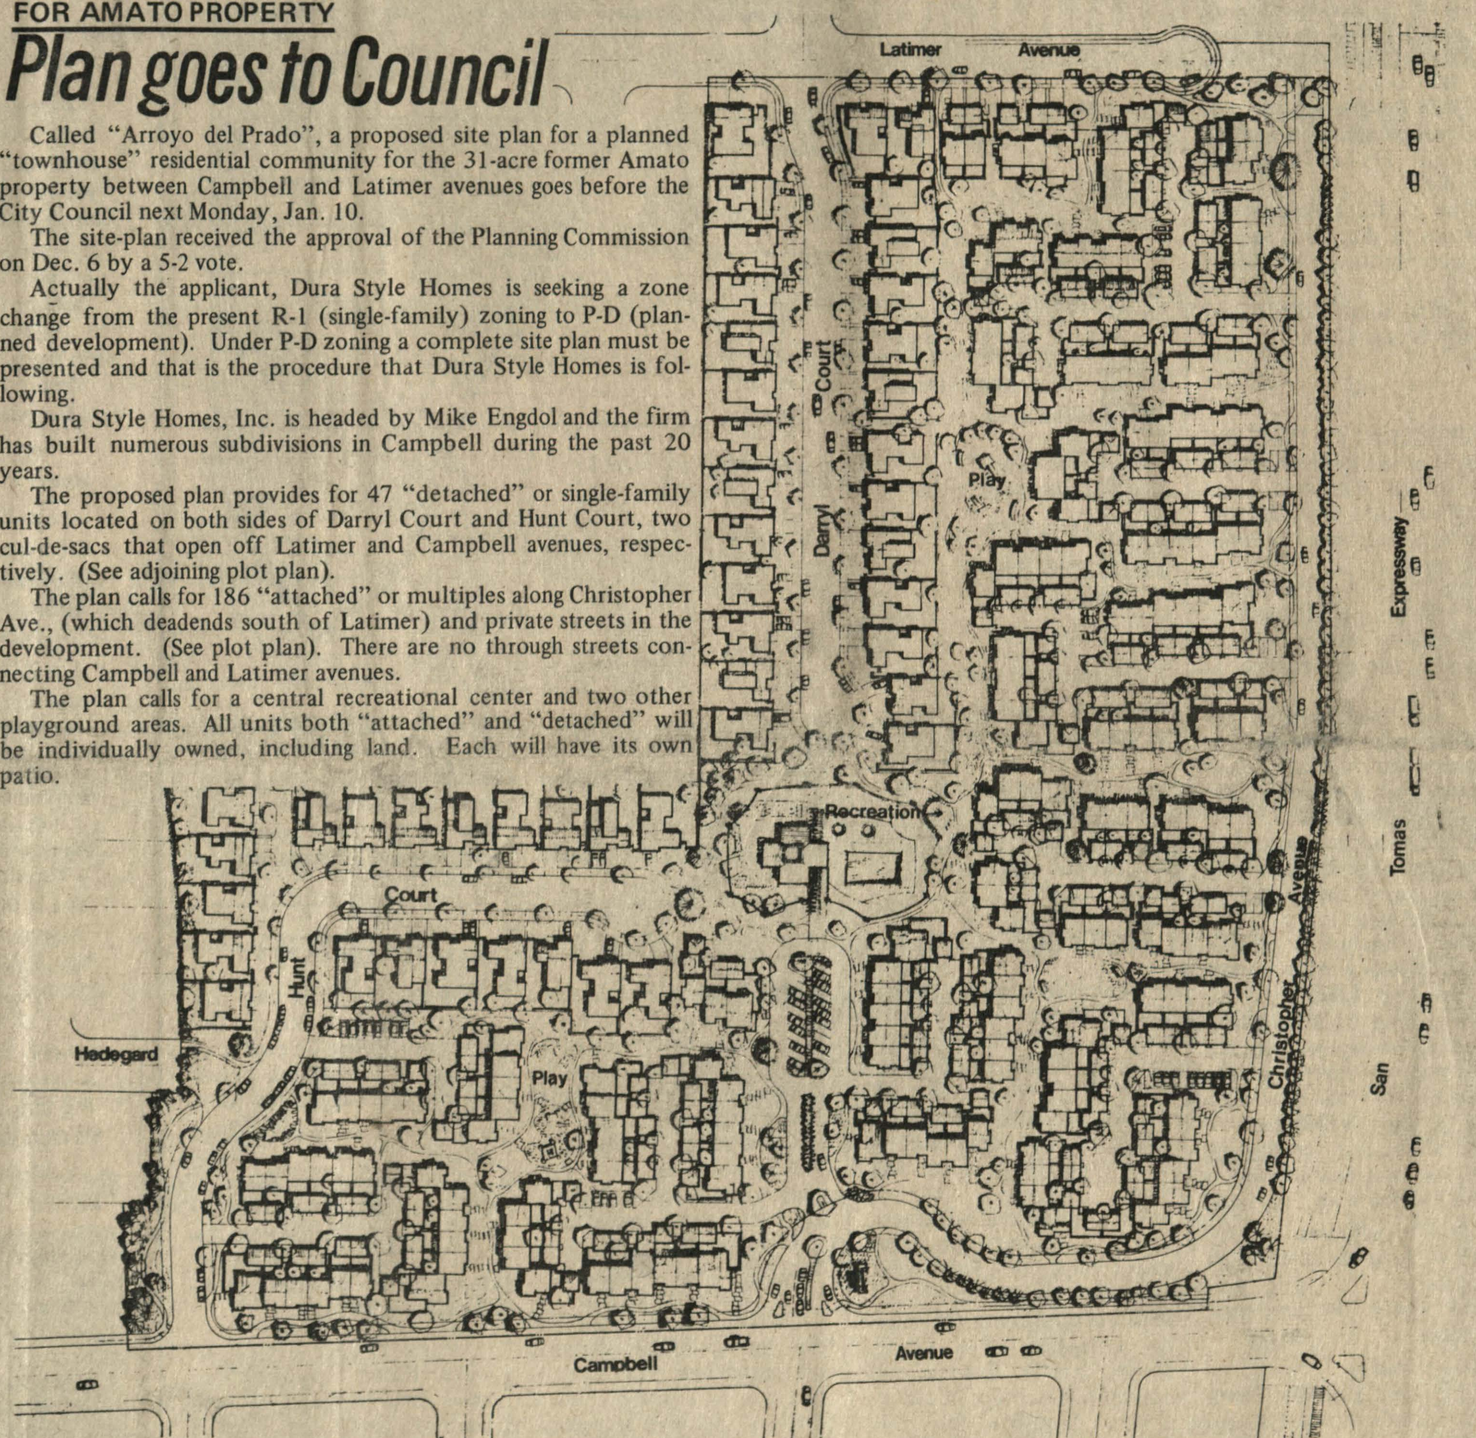
Actually the applicant, Dura Style Homes is seeking a zone change from the present R-1 (single-family) zoning to P-D (planned development). Under P-D zoning a complete site plan must be presented and that is the procedure that Dura Style Homes is following.

Dura Style Homes, Inc. is headed by Mike Engdol and the firm has built numerous subdivisions in Campbell during the past 20 years.

The proposed plan provides for 47 "detached" or single-family units located on both sides of Darryl Court and Hunt Court, two cul-de-sacs that open off Latimer and Campbell avenues, respectively. (See adjoining plot plan).

The plan calls for 186 "attached" or multiples along Christopher Ave., (which deadends south of Latimer) and private streets in the development. (See plot plan). There are no through streets connecting Campbell and Latimer avenues.

The plan calls for a central recreational center and two other playground areas. All units both "attached" and "detached" will be individually owned, including land. Each will have its own patio.



WITH FUNDING STILL UNCERTAIN

Park grants for city get slashed

Campbell has been given the go-ahead signal to apply for a federal grant of $50,000 for the development of Rincon Park and for $25,000 in grants for four neighborhood parks under the new "legacy of parks" program.

And the City can expend funds for development of parks without jeopardizing the future status of the grants, which means, in effect, that the working drawings for Rincon Park can now be authorized.

But there is no certainty that the City of Campbell will receive funding for any of the grants. Permission has only been given to apply.

That was the information contained in a letter last week from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to the city manager.

It was also indicated that a decision as to whether the city's application for all or part of the grants would be forthcoming within 60 days after the filing of the applications.

The City Council has held up completing the landscape agreement with Kenneth Arutunian, landscape architect, for the working drawings of Rincon Park until the situation was clarified as to what effect such an agreement would have on possible federal grants.

A few years ago, the City of Campbell was ruled ineligible to receive funds for the acquisition of park property because of a prior commitment the city had made.

The Council could authorize the agreement with Arutunian on Monday, Jan. 24. At the same meeting, the application forms for the federal grants may also be completed.

But the federal grants for which the city can now apply, are far below the original requests that were made by the city last spring, according to John Ruppel, administrative assistant to the city manager, and Mrs. Edith Morley, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

In March last year, Ruppel explained, the city, under the open space land program, asked for a federal grant of $220,000 for the development of Rincon Park. The project is estimated to cost $440,000 with the city picking up half of the tab ($220,000) from bond funds.

The city also asked for a grant of $80,000 to develop the neighborhood parks at eight schools at a total cost of $160,000. The city would pay its share of the development ($80,000) also from bond funds.

However, in the letter from HUD last week, the city was informed that the city's request for a federal grant for Rincon Park was reduced from $220,000 to $50,000 .

HUD officials also removed four schools (Dover, Rosemary, Rolling Hills and Forest Hill) from the list of neighborhood parks that would be eligible for grants. And the grants to the Hazelwood, Capri and Coventry Schools were reduced to $5000 each. San Tomas, however, will be eligible for a $10,000 grant.

Ruppel explained that the city has bond money available for eight schools at $10,000 each and the federal grants would be used to supplement the bond funds.

He added that the $10,000 bond money is still available to each of the four schools that were cut out by HUD.

Mrs. Morley, Parks and Recreation Commission chairman, expressed disappointment over the slash in park grants by the federal government.

However, Mrs. Morley said that she was pleased that the working drawings for Rincon Park would soon be available. Without having the drawings, she pointed out, it had been impossible for the JayCees or other civic groups to proceed with their park projects.

Council to hold hearing Monday on site plan for Amato property

Another packed house is expected in the council chambers next Monday, Jan. 10 at 8 p.m. when the City Council holds the public hearing on the site plan for the 31-acre former Amato property between Campbell and Latimer avenues just west of the San Tomas expressway.

Residents in areas adjacent to the parcel strenuously objected to the proposed development at the Planning Commission level when the site plan and zone change was approved by a 5-2 vote.

Indications are that a large contingent of residents from the same area will again be on hand next Monday when the City Council holds virtually a repeat performance of the Planning Commission act.

When the Planning Commission first voted on the site plan a 3-3 deadlock resulted because one commissioner was absent necessitating the continuance of the hearing.

The hearing was originally scheduled for Dec. 27, but was postponed until next Monday, Jan. 10, at the request of the protesting residents.

Bob Snead, of 241 Victor, spokesman for the residents at the Dec. 27 meeting filed a petition with 261 names asking for the postponement.

Mike Engdol, president of Dura Style Homes, the applicant for the proposed development, by letter to the Council agreed to the postponement.

In his presentation before the Planning Commission, Engdol argued that the proposed site plan for the townhouse development on the Amato property is of less density than the city's general plan would allow.

He points out that the general plan allows a range in density from 313 to 469 and the Dura Style proposal only calls for 233 units (186 "attached" or multiples and 47 "detached" or single-family units.)

Engdol adds that a modification in the site-plan from that which was originally proposed makes the plan adhere very closely to the city's general plan except for one small segment at the southwest corner on Campbell Ave.

The site-plan has single-family units located on both sides of Darryl Court and Hunt Court, cul-de-sacs that open off Latimer and Campbell avenues, respectively.

However, the residents in the adjacent areas have been adamant in their opposition, maintaining that the entire area should remain zoned R-1 (single-family) despite any guideline established by the city's master plan.

They submit that they did not wholeheartedly approve of the city's specific area plan when it was adopted in 1968-1969, after a series of public hearings.

COUNCIL FILING

Filing for the three City Council seats that are open this year will open on Wednesday, Jan. 13 and close Feb. 17, City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan reports.

The terms of Councilmen Ed Rogers, Bill Smeed and Dean Chamberlin expire.

The election will be held on Tuesday, April 11.

The question of whether the city treasurer should be appointive instead of elective will also be on the ballot.

Commission approves plans for restaurant, office

Plans for a 13,391 square foot office building at 477 Division St., and for a restaurant at 1228 Camden Ave. were approved by the Planning Commission on Monday night.

Before approving the plans, however, the commissioners explored the question of the parking situation in both applications to some extent.

The commissioners approved the plans for the office building as requested by NPL Associates after satisfying themselves that the parking requirements were met.

With the 8000 square foot office building on the site, the total building area would consist of 21,391 square feet. Art Kee, planning director, explained that the ratio would be one space to each 191-square feet which was satisfactory.

In the case of the proposed Carrows Restaurant at 1228 Camden, the commissioners approved the application of Surber and Greenley. However, the commission recommended to the City Council that the sidewalk was unnecessary and should be eliminated. Also that there should be no street parking on the west side of Curtner, which intersects Camden at that point.

In a non-agenda item, the Commission, after considerable discussion, approved three signs for the Texaco station at Union and Campbell avenues as recommended by the planning staff.

However, the applicant was directed to remove the small building under the canopy until a permit for it had been obtained.

The Commission also approved the tentative subdivision map for six lots owned

Plans for Sahadi's new 10-story office building go to Council

In sharp contrast to the hassle that is anticipated over the proposed site-plan for the Amato property, little, if any, opposition is expected over the request of Fred Sahadi for approval of a new 10-story office building in the Prune-Yard at the City Council meeting next Monday, Jan. 10.

Plans for the 10-story aluminum and glass structure that will be located in front of the 18-story "Towers" were approved by the Planning Commission Dec. 20.

The proposed office building will have a gross floor area of 123,000 square feet. According to plans, a total of 830 parking spaces are available for the "Towers", the 10-story building and two 6000 square foot buildings planned for the future.

In addition to the plans, the Council must also approve a zone change for the property to permit the construction of the 140-foot high building.

Other matters on the Council's agenda for next Monday include a letter of protest from a Fuller Brush manager against the city license of $100 and a request by the Division of Highways to install a signal to meter traffic on the north bound on-ramp on the freeway at Hamilton.

The Council is also expected to approve a maintenance agreement for the heating and cooling units at the city hall and will also adopt a routine resolution calling the municipal election for Tuesday, April 11.

It will specify that three council seats will be open. It will also indicate that the question of whether the city treasurer should be appointive instead of elective, will be on the ballot.

Editorial

Early decisions

This is the first editorial for 1972, so it gives us some license to both review and project.

The curtain did not drop on all events when midnight struck on Dec. 31. There are many "carry-overs."

Maybe it would help sometimes, if the deck could be completely cleared at midnight of the old year and we could start afresh in the new year.

But it doesn't work that way.

Almost every projection for the new year in most instances must be based on what has transpired in the previous 12 months.

A case in point would be the tax election on Feb. 29 that will be held in the Campbell Union (elementary) District.

The ground work for the election was set in 1971, but the real action will take place in 1972.

The trustees of the school district, after reviewing a report from a tax election committee and receiving comments from other groups, decided to ask the electorate to approve a 50-cent increase to the current tax rate of $2.55, which would make the new rate $3.05 for the next three years.

Conversely should the voters fail to approve the increase, the district tax rate would drop to $1.80.

The decision to go for the 50-cent increase at an election on Feb. 29 was made by the board early in December, after a number of months had been spent studying the situation.

As the year came to a close, there was a lull in the activities of the school district, but the tempo will soon pick up as the new year gets under way.

Obviously to convince the voters in the district that a tax increase of any size is necessary will be a difficult task, if the experiences in other districts can be taken as a criteria.

For more than a year the school district has been somewhat disrupted with factions and frictions disturbing the scene.

Obviously, if a tax increase is to be approved by the voters, there must be unity in the community.

The voters must be satisfied that definite steps are being taken to improve the conditions that have caused the turmoil.

And that must be done before the vote on Feb. 29.

There are other projections also for the new year that can be based on actions taken in 1971.

On a minor scale, as compared to the school district problem, is the decision that the City Council must make this month with respect to the proposed development of the 31-acre Amato property between Campbell and Latimer avenues.

The site plan for the area received the approval of the Planning Commission in December and now is before the City Council.

Residents in areas adjacent to the property have vigorously opposed any development on the acreage other than for single-family residences.

We concede that this particular issue involves only a small segment of the community as compared to the school district situation. However, it does have a bearing on the city as a whole because of its relation to the city's master plan for that particular area.

The proposed site plan for the property as presented by Dura Style Homes, does follow the city's general land use plan, except for one small section. And the proposal calls for less density than is allowed under the general plan.

The decision of the City Council on this issue (the matter is slated to be heard next Monday, Jan. 10) could have considerable impact on future planning for the city, for it involves interpretation of the general plan in a specific area.

If it is conceded that the proposal for the Amato property basically is in line with the general plan for that area, it seems to us that the City Council must approve it or the entire concept of the general plan is weakened.

It is also important to know how the people feel in any specific area.

Thus early in 1972, there will be two decisions, one affecting the school district and one the city, that could have an important bearing on the community.

under the tree.

But the gal at the gift-wrapping counter wouldn't stand still for that.

While we watched with awe she skillfully disguised the umbrella in Christmas paper.

When we complimented her on her talent, she brushed it off.

"Would you believe," she commented, "yesterday I wrapped a pogo-stick."

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS activity that most families indulge in with varying degrees of enthusiasm and skill is the taking of pictures.

Somehow it wouldn't seem like Christmas if flash bulbs weren't popping all over the place.

On that happy note, City Manager Bob Stephens reports that this Christmas for the first time he was able to get into the family group photos that were taken in his household. Previously to this Christmas the person who was taking the picture was left out.

One of his gifts was a time exposure gadget for his camera. Bob would set his camera then run around and get into the group before the flash went off. He had 15 seconds to make it.

One of the additional advantages of that, of course, is the exercise the photographer gets.

It also should help digest the Christmas dinner.

SPEAKING OF TIME, WE think that the Redevelopment Agency of Campbell must hold the track record for the least time consumed in holding a meeting.

The Redevelopment Agency of the City of Campbell is composed of the five councilmen with the city manager as secretary.

It was established to administer any redevelopment program that will take place in Campbell under the state and federal government.

There hasn't been any such redeveloping going on but the Agency must meet once a month anyway.

The procedure is on the fourth Monday each month for the City Council to adjourn around 9 p.m., convene as the Redevelopment Agency and then reconvene as the Council after the redevelopment business is finished.

Roll is called, minutes are read, old and new business is called for (there isn't any) and the Agency adjourns.

How long do you think that takes?

We timed the procedure last time.

One minute.

City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan officially records the convening and adjourning time in the minutes.

Or should that be "minute"?

-0-

IN RECENT MONTHS our office has received a number of circulars from the Defense Supply Agency listing various items of military surplus property offered for sale on specific dates at various military installations.

A covering letter asks the newspaper's assistance in publicizing the sales.

The letter suggests that the sales are conducted on a competitive bid basis which are designed to assist the small businessman and individual users within a 50 mile radius of the activity where the property is located.

We note that there were five sales held in December in such spots as McClellan AFB, Sacramento, Travis AFB, Fairfield, Mare Island and Lemoore.

Four such sales are scheduled for January at Sacramento, Stockton, Vallejo and Oakland.

-0-

IF A PERSON THINKS that "military surplus property" is limited to military items, an examination of the circulars would correct that thinking.

The items are many and varied.

Undoubtedly one could find something in the listing that would be useful around the home or office.

We saw many such items as well as vehicles of all descriptions.

Of course, some of the specialty items would be somewhat out of place in a home, store, office or farm.

But we were intrigued by some of the stuff listed.

Two dental and six barber chairs were offered at one sale.

We know that the military is allowing long hair now and thus the need for barbers may be lessened.

But there still must be some teeth around.

Building dips in November but 1971 still sets record

Campbell's building "boom", which has already made 1971 a record-breaking year, took a dip in November when building permits totalled only $69,325, according to Wally Byron, building official.

However, the previous 10 months had surpassed all previous records, pushing the total for the year to date to $18,379,221.20, as compared to a total of $5,854,293 for the same period last year.

The November total this year of $69,325 was less than November 1970 when $92,966 in permits were issued.

November this year was unusual also because only one new building permit was issued. That permit was for a Quik Stop Market, at 923 W. Hamilton, for $23,175.

The other building permits were for alterations ($14,720); demolition ($5000); signs ($1650); and "other" ($24,740).

For the first 11 months this year, however, the most outstanding increase has been in the "multiple" category.

Last year at the end of 11 months there had been four such permits for $2,080,099 while at the end of November this year there had been 107 permits for $13,547,700!

And this year, after several years of drought, during the first 11 months there have been nine permits for single family dwellings for a total of $174,388.

During 1970 there were no single family dwelling permits issued by the City of Campbell!

In the commercial field, however, there has been very little change this year from last.

To date this year, there have been 25 permits issued for commercial buildings for $2,682,431 compared to 24 for the same period last year for $2,507,847.

Industrial building, however, has shown a good-sized gain this year. During the first 11 months 15 industrial building permits were issued for $963,029 while during the same period in 1970 there had been 11 permits for $642,410.

And there has been a big increase in swimming pools this year.

Last year through November there had been 25 permits issued for pools for $83,490 while this year during the same period there were 44 permits for $129,280.

WHAT IT MEANS—This is the land use plan of the City of Campbell for "Specific Area I" adopted July 29, 1968 and amended Oct. 27, 1969 by the City Council. The arrow indicates the Amato property for which Dura Style Homes, Inc. has submitted plans for a residential development. Dura Style Homes follows the general plan except for a small portion on the western end on Campbell Ave.

District 4 to end 21 years of operation

Santa Clara County Sanitation District 4, a governmental "pollution control" agency providing sanitary sewerage facilities for approximately 122,400 west valley residents has completed its 21st year of operations this year.

The Sanitation District provides continuous preventive and emergency sewer maintenance for a 30 square-mile area encompassing the Cities of Campbell, Los Gatos, Monte Sereno, Saratoga and adjacent unincorporated areas.

The District's 394 mile main and lateral sewer system is maintained by a nine-man department, a ratio of one man for every 44 miles of sewer system.

Maintenance crews, using a preventive maintenance program, removed 25 tons of debris from the sewer system during the past year, inspected sewers, and maintained "root control stations," enabling the District to keep main stoppages to only 19 for the year. The District also provides 24-hour service for maintenance of street lateral sewers.

NINE PROJECTS

During the year, the District engineering staff designed and inspected nine projects with a total contract cost of $446,137, as well as processing annexations, preparing engineering reports, and other miscellaneous activities.

The District engineers also prepared a "mathematical model," using computer technology, in order to better estimate the quantities of sewage in different trunk sewers.

The sewage collected by County Sanitation District 4 is treated and 90 per cent of its pollutants removed in the San Jose-Santa Clara Water Pollution Control Plant prior to its discharge into South San Francisco Bay. The District has paid $3,593,822 toward the capital cost of the plant, and $204,760 this past fiscal year toward its operating costs.

During the fiscal year concluded last June 30, the District contributed an estimated average of 7.5 million gallons per day of sewage to the plant, at a cost of $123 per million gallons.

To conform to State of California uniform accounting requirements for waste disposal districts, the District reclassified its accounts effective July 1, 1970.

Fiscal Officer Everett Olson's audited consolidated balance sheet indicates the total District's assets and other debits at $32,964,868 less liabilities of $13,177,602, leaving a total of $19,787,266 in investment in fixed assets reserves, contributions and "retained earnings" as of June 30, 1971.

The Commission also approved a variance for Lois Powell for an odd-shaped lot at Rincon and First St., on which the applicant plans to build a 1,160 square foot residence and garage.

The entire lot contains approximately 4,258 square feet. The variance allows the applicant to have a setback of nine feet for the residence from First St. The lot was previously used by Campbell Water Co. as a pumping station.

A for your thoughts

By Edith Bonnet

BACKWARDS OR FORWARDS

Most of us who have children consider their education one of the most important parts of their upbringing. Many of us are actively involved with our schools in one way or the other. I'm glad my kids are in Campbell schools, because education is important here. Many teachers and administrators are working harder than ever before to improve the quality of education.

And yet, sometimes, when I talk to people, I get the feeling our heads are on backwards. We've lost sight of what an education is for. Long before there was public school and education was mandatory, there were very learned men and many average men and some illiterate men. We have decreased the number of illiterate men, and increased the number of people who can read and write, and that's good! But there's so much more to be done.

No wonder our kids feel under so much pressure. They are trying to understand a very complicated and confusing world. They know that someday they will be expected to function in that world. Meanwhile, we sit complacently in our easy chairs and expect a little white paper called a diploma, to hand them a future on a golden platter in twenty long years of reading, writing and memorizing. Thank God our educators aren't as apathetic as the parent community.

We had better stop underestimating our children. These kids have bright minds; they want to be a part of the world right now. We push them to spend more and more years in formal education, and to keep their mouths shut while they are doing it. At the same time, we tell them "there's no teacher like experience". Experience is what they want, to do something and think and analyze and solve some real problems, just like us grown-up "educated" folks. And you know what, they're right. It's not an impossible dream. Let's take the lid off their potential and let it develop.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Seen on an old car that looked as if it knew what it was talking about, "Tail-gating is dangerous to plants and animals and other living things, so get the H--- off my bumper."

Seen in a local tire center, "Prices may be raised at any time, without prior notification–according to customers attitude."

A TOUCH OF THE LIGHT

A fellow was scheduled for major surgery at a California hospital. The night before, his surgeon stopped by to check him and ask him how he felt. The friend replied, "I feel fine, how do you feel?" The doctor looking somewhat puzzled, replied, "Fine. Why?" The patient nonplussed, replied, "You're the one who'll be holding the knife, so it's you, not me, that I'm concerned about."

GUNNERY SCHOOL

As a Navy Gunner's Mate he will maintain and repair small arms, gun turrets and guns, depth charge mechanisms and rocket and missile launching equipment.

YOUTH COUNCIL REPORTS

by Mary Bizjack

To start the new year off right, Youth Council will be going on a snow trip. The most active people in the council, the chaperones and their children are welcome.

Our trip will be under way on Jan. 7 and will take us to a cabin in Pinecrest. The weekend will close on Sunday when we will all return to the church to unpack our gear.

Next we're busy again on Jan. 14. Youth Council has planned a Spaghetti Feed, which will help us earn our chaperone's way. The meal will begin at 7:30 in the annex. The price for adults 16 and over is $1.25, and under, $.75.

The family maximum is $5. Hope to see you there!

We're looking forward to meeting you in the new year!

Law enforcement council issues drug abuse policy

Persons suffering from the effects of drug abuse should receive medical attention as soon as possible without fear of arrest, according to a county law enforcement group.

The Santa Clara County Law Enforcement Executive Council, a group comprised of the head of all municipal, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies within the county, and the District Attorney, recently attempted to clarify the situation through a statement unanimously adopted by the group.

The statement specifies:

"Police officers are often asked by citizens what should be done when one is found to be suffering from an overdose of drugs or alcohol--the fear being that to report is to subject the party to arrest.

"The obvious answer is that such a person should receive adequate medical attention as soon as possible.

"Because of the danger to others if the person needing treatment is under the influence of the drug, he should not be allowed to operate a motor vehicle.

"Mere addiction to narcotics is not a criminal offense; therefore, persons seeking medical treatment for narcotics, drugs, or alcohol addiction at any authorized medical treatment facility established to handle such problems are not liable to arrest or prosecution merely by reason of the fact that they seek such medical treatment.

"It is the policy of all of the police agencies in Santa Clara County, as well as the office of the District Attorney, to encourage people with addiction problems to seek authorized medical treatment for such problems."

Los Gatos Police Chief Harold A. Johnson, current chairman of the Council, explained the announcement of the policy is to clarify the position of all county law enforcement agencies and to encourage those suffering the effects of addiction, abuse or overdose of drugs or alcohol, to seek proper medical treatment for their affliction.

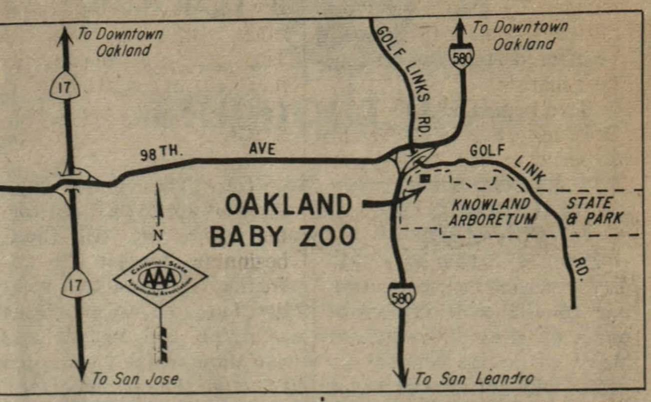
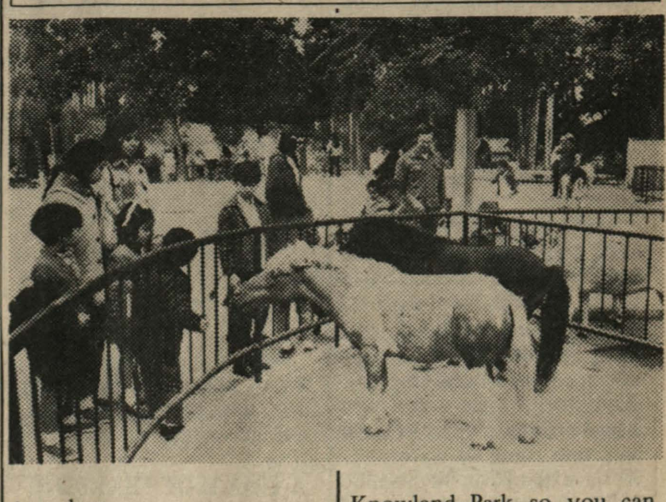
Adults can have fun at Oakland Zoo





They call it the Oakland Baby Zoo but don't get the idea that this means it's only for the kids. Adults have as much fun as any youngster. Why? Because many of the baby animals including goats, sheep, tiny burros and llamas roam about freely begging for a handout.

There's no need to worry—the animals are all quite polite. They may nudge you a bit as they pick up alfalfa pellets from your outstretched hand but they are gentle and friendly.

The youngsters will also have a great time riding a giant Galapagos tortoise, feeding Flipper, a highly resourceful seal, or getting an eye-to-eye view of one of the fattest and cutest little hippopotamus you ever saw. The baby zoo was designed so that even the smallest tots can see everything.

The Oakland Baby Zoo is located in Knowland State Park, says the California State Automobile Association, just off the MacArthur Freeway at 98th Avenue.

In addition to the many varieties of animals that roam around freely inside the zoo so you can pet them, there are some that are kept in cages or behind fences for safer observation. These include two lion cubs, some miniature horses, two baby chimpanzees, a small elephant, South American ostrich and several miniature deer.

At feeding time some of the animals take bottles, after all they're just babies. These bottle feedings take place at 11 a.m., 2 and 4:30 p.m. and the kids are allowed to hold the bottles as the animals guzzle up.

The Baby Zoo is located adjacent to the big zoo in Knowland Park so you can also see giraffes, zebras, elephants, tigers, baboons and many other varieties of wildlife from all parts of the world.

The Oakland Baby Zoo is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is .50¢ for children ages 2-14, .75¢ for adults.

LIBRARY VOLUNTEER--A volunteer parent assists a child with some educational equipment in one of Moreland School District's school libraries. Several hundred parents donate more than 100 cumulative hours per day to assist in the District's libraries.

Moreland uses parent's help

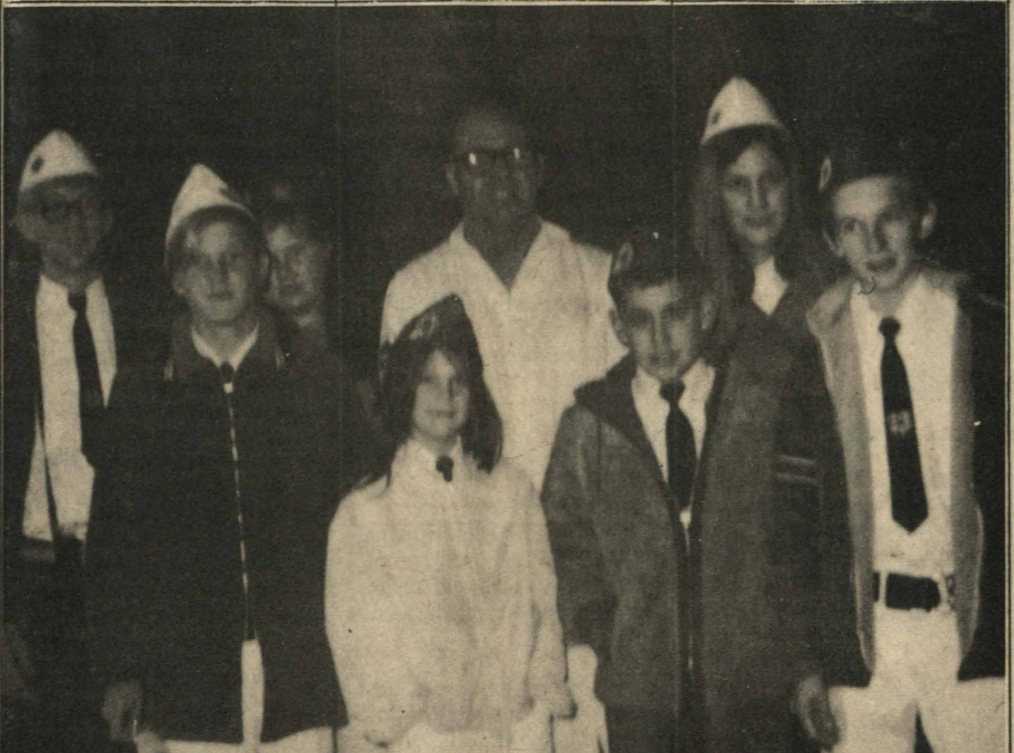
Parents have traditionally aided school programs by serving as room mothers, office helpers, health aides and other general duties.

Yet the Moreland School District has utilized the vast reservoir of volunteer parent help to a much greater extent during the last four years.

More than 325 parents assist children in the district's 16 school libraries. Duties include checking books in and out of the library, helping children locate books, gathering resource materials for teachers and keeping the library in top condition.

Volunteers recruited and trained by the library chairman at each school, are chosen by the PTA and Home and School Clubs under the guidance of the school's principal.

As a result of the library volunteer program children have been able to make use of the library facilities and resources during the entire school day.



RABBIT FIELD DAY--Members of Buena Suerte 4-H Club, front row, Jim Bombace, Pam Weiss, Eric Fontaine, Greg Weiss; back row, Brian La Plante, Liz Whitty, Mr. Phillips and Diedre Rose turned out for the 4-H Rabbit Field Day. The event was held at the county fairgrounds. Mr. Sturner and Mr. Phillips, who presided over the field day, presented a slide-show on the different breeds of rabbits, and offered tips on judging the rabbits.

Registration and a $2 fee are required for the forum, to be held on four consecutive Friday evenings (Jan. 14–Feb. 4) at 8 p.m. on the Campbell campus. Registration forms are available in the Office of Community Services, 44 E. Latimer Ave.. Campbell, room L-26, telephone 379-1733, ext. 58.

United Fund plans giving

Where will all the money go? That is a question that many Campbell contributors to the 1971 Santa Clara County United Fund campaign might be asking themselves.

Nearly 100 men and women serving on UF's Allocations and Admissions Committees seek to answer that question.

Agencies serving the needs of people in a multiple number of UF Chapters are currently being evaluated by the Fund's County Allocations & Admissions Committee, under the direction of UF Vice-President Robert A. Grimm of Hewlett-Packard.

Grimm and the 13-man committee have been meeting periodically since Nov. 24 reviewing agencies and their programs.

Central Avea Chapter allocations begin Jan. 4.

An estimated 2,300 man hours will be spent by volunteers on the committees in arriving at recommendations for 1972 funding, according to Grimm. Announcement of total funding for 1972 is slated for early March.

Last month more than 12,000 volunteers concluded the 1971 campaign with a 4.4 per cent increase above previous giving, a $3,918,289 final.

Dimes will help birth research

Under the direction of Bob Tellesen, giant dime collection boards and smaller coin collectors are appearing in Campbell's restaurants, retail stores, and bars this week as part of the January March of Dimes against birth defects campaign.

This is just one of the fund-raising activities being carried on in January to finance the year-around program of National Foundation, the national voluntary health agency working in the field of birth defects. The program covers education for both medical personnel and laymen, research, with emphasis on the latter.

A quarter million birth defective babies are born each year in the United States. The National Foundation philosophy is that the long-range program should emphasize research into causes of those defects, diverting the research into possible preventive measures after causes have been found.

Economic Stabilization
Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

–The Internal Revenue Service will answer inquiries and issue rulings regarding the stabilization program. There are more than 360 IRS offices throughout the country where inquiries and complaints can be made.

Requests for rulings and for exemptions or exceptions to stabilization regulations should be in writing and directed to the IRS district office in the area where you live or work. There is at least one IRS district office in every state.

Q—What court action can be taken against an individual or firm that violates a provision of the economic stabilization program?

A—The Justice Department may seek a civil injunction to stop persons from raising prices, wages or rents higher than is permitted. Failure to comply with the injunction would place the violator in contempt of court and subject to civil penalties. In addition, the Economic Stabilization Act provides that upon conviction for a willful violation, a person may be subject to a fine of $5,000 for each violation.

Q—What businesses are subject to prenotification and reporting of their price increases?

A—Firms with annual sales or revenues of $100 million or more are subject to prenotification and reporting. In general, these firms must notify the Price Commission in advance and obtain approval of proposed price increases. In addition, they must file quarterly reports with the Price Commission. Firms with annual sales or revenues between $50 million and $100 million must file quarterly reports with the Price Commission, but they do not need to obtain advance approval of price increases.

Forms for prenotifiers and reporters are available at the local offices of the Internal Revenue Service.

Q—What wage and salary adjustments must be prenotified and approved and what are those that need only be reported?

A—Wage and salary adjustments for employees in construction must be prenotified and approved by the Pay Board before they are made effective.

Wage and salary adjustments which affect from 1,000 to 5,000 employees must be reported to the Pay Board. For this group no prenotification is necessary.

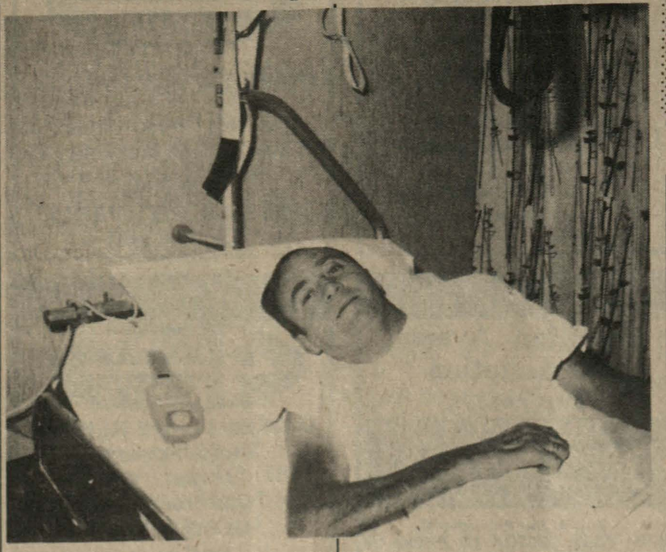
Electric bed will boost paraplegic

By Barbara Price



EXPECTING A BRIGHTER NEW YEAR--Jim Cook, 42-year-old paraplegic, lies in the type hospital bed at Valley Medical Center which he hopes he can obtain for his own when he returns to Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital. Friends are trying to raise funds to make the purchase possible.

A small, insignificant thing can change the whole course of a man's life. For Jim Cook, 42 year old convalescent home patient, that small thing was his children's pet squirrel.

On Mother's Day, 1963, Cook climbed into a tree at the family home in Racine, Wisconsin, in pursuit of his family's pet spuirrel.

Cook tried to balance himself on a rotten tree bough, but the limb gave way and he fell eight feet, breaking his neck in three places.

In the eight years since the fall, the former welder and Navy veteran has been in surgery over sixteen times.

Death stalked close to Jim Cook in the operating room. Cook recalls one thirteen hour neck operation where the doctors hastily terminated the half-finished surgery and wheeled Cook out of the room.

"They thought I was dying."

Infused with a quiet inner strength, Cook survived all the operations, along with four cases of pneumonia and two double pneumonia.

Results of the operations include a neck bone half of plastic, a metal plate inside his arm, and a splint inside his right hand. Cook can also place a brace onto his left hand, giving the paraplegic enough manual control to pick up a telephone, or hold a pencil.

Cook was moved from Racine to the West Coast after he was well enough to travel, since it was thought that medical facilities here would be able to do more for him. Cook's brother, who lives in the area also encouraged him to come.

A patient at the Stanford Medical Center and San Francisco hospital, Cook was finally moved to the Beverly Manor Convalescent Home and has lived there approximately five years.

Two months ago, after a lengthy application process, Cook was admitted to the rehabilitation department at the Santa Clara Valley Medical Center on a Medi-Cal "scholarship."

While at the Medical Center, Cook has had two more operations, strengthened himself in numerous physical therapy sessions, and learned to type by grasping a pencil in each hand and tapping the appropriate key.

He can also grasp a telephone and, perhaps most crucial of all, operate an electric bed control.

Cook can move himself into a position for typing or answering the phone by pressing the button on the control box, which then moves the mattress into a heightened and angular position.

When he returns to the Beverly Manor Convalescent Home in several weeks, Cook hopes to initiate a small telephone answering service, plus doing some typing, like envelopes, for local business.

For his dreams to come true, Jim Cook needs an electric bed, but the convalescent home has no such bed, and the Medi-Cal funds don't cover the expense.

The solution? Uncertain. But the staff, determined that Cook's stay at the Medical Center won't be for nothing, have gone ahead and ordered the electric bed.

Total cost of the bed is $1,160. Approximately $800 has been raised.

A potluck dinner at the Cambrian Park United Methodist Church, money from bottles collected by the seventh grade Sunday school class at the church, personal donations, and a drawing on a purple afghan, were among the methods used to raise money for the bed.

Those who would like to make a contribution to the Jim Cook Trust Fund for the electric bed, should mail it to the Beverly Manor Convalescent Home, 14966 Terreno De Flores, Los Gatos, 95030.

Comedy features Campbellites

Several Campbell residents are featured in the comedy, "Sunday in New York", a production by the Community Players of Los Gatos-Saratoga.

Andy Moore, of Adler Street, Campbell, plays the part of Russ Wilson in the drama which opens Friday, Jan. 7 at the Saratoga Civic Theater. Moore, with an extensive background in professional radio, has worked on many local theater productions including "Man For All Seasons", "Haunting of Hill House", and "An Evening With Albee."

The comedy will be produced by Fred Lueck of Buddlawn Way, Campbell. A few months ago, Fred directed the historical drama "Man For All Seasons" for the Community Players Group.

He was also director for "An Evening With Albee". last year. Recently, Fred designed the sets for the West Valley Light Opera Company's "Music Man", and he was technical director for the San Jose Theatre Guild's production of "Plaza Suite."

The lighting design of "Sunday In New York" will be the responsibility of William Jones, Campbell High School student, of Buddlawn Way, Campbell. Bill was seen earlier this season playing the role of a page in the Community Players production of "Man For All Seasons".

During the run of "Music Man", Bill worked on the lighting board for the West Valley Light Opera Company.

Making the play a family affair will be Bill's sister, Janet Jones. Janet, a Campbell High graduate, will help with costuming for "Sunday In New York". She currently attends Bryant and Stratton College of Commerce, San Jose.

For ticket reservations, phone 264-0188.

SUNDAY IN NEW YORK---Debbie Jones, Kent Seegmiller, Gary Ferry and Andy Moore, a Campbell resident, rehearse a scene from the comedy "Sunday in New York" which opens Friday, Jan. 7 at the Saratoga Civic Center, 13777 Fruitvale Ave. Curtain time for the comedy, which will be performed Friday and Saturday, Jan. 7, 8, 14, 15, 21 and 22 is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $2.50, general, $1.75, students.

Fire marshal finds cause of office fires

The Los Gatos and Redwood City dental office fires that killed one person, seriously injured one doctor and caused over $300,000 in damages were traced to faulty equipment installation.

The fires originated in a flexible tubing used to connect two oxygen cylinders, according to Alan B. Carder, County Fire Marshal.

Carder said that results of investigation and tests supervised by his office and the Redwood City Fire Marshal show that a nylon check valve in one end of the tubing ignited under heat created when oxygen was suddenly introduced into the tubing.

The oxygen tanks were part of a nitrous oxide-oxygen unit. Nitrous oxide is an anesthetic used by dentists primarily for analgesic purposes.

When the valve ignited in the pure oxygen atmosphere of the tubing, a flame of more than 1,000 degrees in temperature instantly flashed through the entire length of the tubing.

Carder explained that in both accidents the intense heat quickly burned through the tubing's teflon inner lining and burst the stainless steel mesh sheathing.

County plans to improve house-numbering system

Consistency and order are about to be instituted in Santa Clara County's historically confused house numbering system. The order will come in the form of a master house numbering plan recently adopted by the County Board of Supervisors and now in the first stages of implementation.

The County Department of Public Works is using the new style addresses for all building permits it is now issuing. In addition it is currently preparing new addresses for all five digit numbers in the area east of San Jose from the Milpitas city limits to Quimby Road, according to Walter J. Gray, building inspection supervisor.

County officials estimate that eventually a total of 25,000 to 30,000 addresses will be changed throughout the North County.

The plan will take several years to fully implement. It involves changing the five-digit numbering system in the County's unincorporated areas to the numbering system of the city that would most likely annex that area in the event annexation is proposed. For example, the County five-digit numbers along San Jose's eastern boundary will be changed to the three and four digit system used by San Jose.

The massive change of addresses will greatly simplify mail delivery, fire, police and ambulance services, and should be a benefit to the public in general, according to County Department of Public Works official Dean Larson.

At present there are areas of the county with two or three numbering systems used on the same street. Not only are there streets with three, four, and five digit systems intermixed, but there is sometimes duplication of numbers.

Often there is no consistency in the direction of increasing numbers, or consistency in the side of the street to which odd and even numbers are assigned.

The address changes are based on plans made by a firm of consulting engineers hired by the County to study the number system problem. This same firm will prepare a set of master maps to guide the Department of Public Works in the actual changeover.

The Public Works Building Inspection Division will oversee the assigning of new numbers.

Public Works officials are expecting many problems to come up during the changeover.

Larson said, "We don't even know what all the problems will be." But he added, "The North County numbering system became more and more of a problem every year."

A uniform system of house numbering was recently implemented in the South County which involved changing all house numbers in Morgan Hill and Gilroy as well as the unincorporated area. According to Larson the new numbering system has worked out very well.

Larson said that the North County presents special kinds of problems because of the density of population and the checkerboard pattern of city boundaries.

Each change of address will be reported to the Board of Supervisors. After this report the Public Works Department will notify the occupant and the owner as well as an estimated 20 other public and private agencies that use addresses as part of their operations.

Local merchant tours Australia

Sid Teiger, owner of the House of Fashion in the Kirkwood Plaza, recently returned from a six-week trip to Australia.

Teiger visited friends in Australia, besides touring many woolen mills and factories in Sydney and other major cities with an eye to selecting sample fabrics for his women's wear shop.

One of the materials Teiger discovered is a soft glowing cloth called "Chavasol". The proprietor brought back samples of that and other fabrics, including spring knits of 100 per cent virgin wool.

CONSUMER EDUCATION--Larry Sheahan, consumer affairs coordinator, for the County Department of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs, explains consumer protection laws and the pitfalls of shopping to a class of housewives. Sheahan's office is charged with conducting consumer education campaigns and preventing frauds in merchandising.

Are consumer laws inadequate?

"Considering our limitations, we've had fantastic success," says Larry Sheahan, Santa Clara County's first Consumer Affairs Division Coordinator.

Since his appointment last January Sheahan has seen his staff increase along with the number of consumer complaints which has grown from ten in June to 111 last month.

Sheahan said his office has three basic functions; investigation, mediation and education. When the Consumer Affairs Division receives a complaint they investigate and help the consumer and the seller reach agreement.

"One of our principal tools is persistence," said Sheahan.

"Many times a consumer has been wronged morally but not in the eyes of the law." Often with prodding, the seller will come to a negotiated settlement with the consumer, " said Sheahan.

But if the state has no law and the seller has no conscience the consumer may be cheated with impunity. Many county residents are cheated daily because of inadequate laws, according to Sheahan. The main categories are auto and appliance repairs, carpeting and unscrupulous collection agencies.

"The fact is, despite all the consumer protection laws, legal protection for the consumer is still terribly inadequate," he explained. "Most of the new laws look good at first glance but often there really isn't much force to the laws."

Nevertheless, the Consumer Affairs Division records indicate that the office has closed 435 complaints and returned to consumers $6,623 since April. Yet these figures don't show the full picture, because once an unscrupulous businessman learns that he can be made to answer for his cheating he is far less likely to attempt to defraud consumers.

Consumers with a problem should call the Santa Clara County Department of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs, 299-2105.

HEADING UP SCIENCE FAIR--Lillian Severin, who was the advanced biology teacher at Willow Glen School until her retirement this year, has been named the 1972 Science Fair manager. As manager, she will handle arrangements for the huge fair, held at the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds in the spring. Assistant fair manager for the past two years, the retired teacher will coordinate entries from hundreds of students in grades six through 12. Three of her students won top honors at local fairs and went on to International Science Fairs.

College hosts Ray Bradbury

RAY BRADBURY

The world of science fiction invades West Valley College on Monday, Jan. 24 when Ray Bradbury, a prolific author, makes an 8 p.m. appearance in the Campbell campus auditorium, Winchester Blvd. and Campbell Ave.

Bradbury is the author of "Dandelion Wine", "The Illustrated Man" and countless other science fiction tales, short stories, novels, and film stage and tv scripts. He has written over 1,000 words a day since he was 12 years old.

Book reviewers say Bradbury "soars his fans through the gauzy supernatural worlds of fantasy—knowing no boundaries and pulling no punches."

Yet this same man has never driven a car, flown in an airplane or done anything more mechanical than setting an alarm clock.

Tickets for Bradbury's appearance may be obtained in the office of Community Services, 44 E. Latimer Ave., Campbell campus, room L-26, 379-1733, ext. 58.
